Thanks for this! Am quite happy to get this setup.

One error that I did run to, and might be helpful for others to know, was with the images. It seems that the folder they are stored in in iCloud isn't created until the first image is added in DayOne. The script errors out if its not there, so the fix was just manually adding an image into DayOne, and then automate the script with Hazel and everything started working a-ok.

Thanks again :)

Yep, I have this fixed for the next version, but for now just create a "photos" folder in the root of the journal, next to the "entries" folder.
