I too would like to use slogger to add my recent pinboard activity to Day One, but the (updated) version still gives the same error noted above.

Since my MBP isn't always on and I don't get to open it up everyday due to vagaries of toddler activity, I wonder if it would work to put slugger on a web hosting location, set a cron job to run daily, placing the resulting XML files in some destination there, and later rsyncing those new files to the macbook's Dropbox folder where my day one journal lives. Is that just asking for trouble?

Thanks for a neat tool!
