Knowing you're 90% through a re-write... should I hold off for however long it takes for you to finish before I try and implement this? Not that I want to rush you, I'm more curious to know if I'll end up doing a lot of re-work on something that can way a few days/weeks to try.

Nah, if you get the current version up and running now, the update will only improve on what you have. At worst, you'll have to re-enter configuration details, but the current config file will translate fine.

Awesome, thanks. bought Day One today (iOS and OS X) and can't wait to see how this works/where the project goes. Pulling in content automatically should really add value to Day One... I wouldn't be surprised if they end up adding a lot of what you've accomplished to their app in a future update.
