Great tool. I would love to have similar functionality to transfer stuff directly from Google Reader or Instapaper into Evernote....(preferably using the reduced content provided by Safari Reader)

That's actually feasible using the hacked up version of the Evernote clipper I made for the Antique Reader hack. It allows you to pass in your own title and url, then handles the clipping part on its own. I'll see if I can make the time to cut this together with that and make a single-keystroke Reader->Evernote extension :).

Do you still think that you'll find time to put this together?

I really would love it.

Thanks,

The new Evernote clipper that came out last week will actually make it even easier, I think. I'll definitely try to take a look at it this weekend. Adding to the to-do list :).

Is there still hope to see some kind of tool for Instapaper / Google Reader / Evernote data archiving?

It could happen, but I'm juggling way too much right now to make any promises. Definitely still on the project list, though.
