That's actually feasible using the hacked up version of the Evernote clipper I made for the Antique Reader hack. It allows you to pass in your own title and url, then handles the clipping part on its own. I'll see if I can make the time to cut this together with that and make a single-keystroke Reader->Evernote extension :).

Do you still think that you'll find time to put this together?

I really would love it.

Thanks,

The new Evernote clipper that came out last week will actually make it even easier, I think. I'll definitely try to take a look at it this weekend. Adding to the to-do list :).

Cool! I'm looking forward to Monday. Many thanks.

Is there still hope to see some kind of tool for Instapaper / Google Reader / Evernote data archiving?

It could happen, but I'm juggling way too much right now to make any promises. Definitely still on the project list, though.
